The K. W. C. at Winchester opened on last Tuesday with about one hundred pupils. Dr. Pierce, the new President, is using all possible means to complete the college building and when this is done, Winchester will have one of the handsomest school buildings in the State. The K. W. C. has a faculty of eight efficient teachers. The people of Winchester appreciate the advantage of having a college of such a character in their midst and are very kind and hospitable to the students. This year opens with prospects for the most prosperous in the history of the institution.

NOTES.

The athletes are very much interested in the "Fall" game and are making preparations for the coming season.

This college had a splendid base-ball team last season and they expect to better it next.

The Y. M. C. A. of this college is an important feature.

The college will soon be fitted up with a gymnasium with all the necessary apparatus.

Wonderful.

Some people talk of hard times, but to those who labor hard such times are obviated. The Wrought Iron Range Co., of St. Louis, made, shipped and sold from their factory in St. Louis in the month of August, 42 car loads of ranges, averaging from 66 to 72 to the car load, which is more than any one company sold in a year in the United States. From this point Mr. L. P. Lack has sold more than four car loads in this and adjoining counties from wagons, and in a few weeks will close out the last load. The range is constructed on scientific principles and is strictly a wrought iron range. One of them placed in a neighborhood is such an advertisement that every other housekeeper who is able to own one will buy. It is a quick and economic cooker, and every utensil used is made of the best material. Mr. Lack is elated with the success with which he is meeting, and stands ready to prove every assertion he makes in regard to his range.

A tent of Macabees is ready and will be organized here one day next week. Due notice will be given.

DR. SUTPHIN

Here As Partner of Dr. D. L. Procter.

Of Dr. J. L. Sutphin the Clarksville Chronicle says:

"It is a loss to a community to give up a citizen like Dr. Sutphin. He is thorough in his profession, and had built up a lucrative practice in Clarksville and vicinity, and his patrons were among the best people of the city. An earnest, honest, careful dentist, he could be relied upon for first-class work in all the more delicate details of the profession. Personally no man has ever lived in Clarksville who commanded more genuine respect on account of his integrity of character and high moral tone. May success attend him."

Dr. Sutphin is now associated with Dr. D. L. Procter in the practice of dentistry. Dr. Sutphin is a regular graduate in dentistry with fifteen years of active practical experience and besides took a special course in crown and bridge work in 1891 in Chicago. We are glad to have such men of science and experience to locate in our midst and it is no mistake that he will add increased patronage to the already large business of Dr. Procter.

NAMED NUMERICALLY.

How a Connecticut Pater Familias Chose the Cognomen of His Children.

In a Connecticut town some years ago there lived a peculiar couple, who selected the names of their children apparently with a view to educational exercises. There were fourteen children in the family, and they were named for the numerals in regular order, beginning with "One." The father was locally famous as a mathematician, and during the early years of his children they had a daily tuition which seemed extraordinary to their playmates, who were provided with every-day names. "Three and four go to the woodbox and get your mother some kindlings," the mathematical father would say, appearing before a group of his numerical offspring. "Three and four would keep on playing ball or whatever game happened to be engrossing their attention, but a diminutive person who commonly answered to the name of "Seven" was sure to drop his play and start for his box.

The Graded School opened Monday with about 350 pupils, a larger number than any preceding year.

Reid-Lockwood.

In announcing the marriage of Mr. Wm. H. Reid, of this county, and Miss Florence Lockwood, of Stamford, Conn., Form. a New York society journal, says:

"What will undoubtedly be one of the most notable social functions of the year in Stamford, will occur Tuesday, October 1, when Miss Florence Lockwood, daughter of Mr. Fredrick W. Lockwood, will be united in marriage to William Reid, of Mt. Sterling Ky. The ceremony will be performed at 8 o'clock in the evening at St. John's Episcopal Church. Miss Lockwood will be attended by her cousin, Miss Mabelle Claghorn, of Philadelphia, as maid-of-honor, preceded by her little nieces, Marguerite and Florence Grumbrecht. There will be four bridesmaids, Miss Sallie Middlebrook, of Brooklyn, N. Y., Miss Eleanor Pier report Edwards, of Newark, N. J., Miss Winifred Hall, and Miss Estelle Hoyt, of Stamford.

"The brother of the groom, Mr. J. Coleman Reid, will act as best man, and the ushers will be eight in number, including Mr. John Bulkeley-Bulkeley, of Hartford, nephew of ex-Governor Bulkeley-Bulkeley, Mr. Christopher Columbus Baldwin, the Messrs. Tripp and Victor Phillips, of New York. The music at the church will be rendered by Harry Rowe Shelley, the prominent organist and composer, of Brooklyn, N. Y. The wedding gown will be of white satin with point lace, and the train will be only twelve inches, in accordance with the latest mode. The bouquet will consist of bridal roses. The maid-of-honor and the bridesmaids will be gowned in white mousseline de soie, and they also will carry bouquets of bridal roses. After the ceremony at the church, a reception will be held at the residence of the bride's parents, one of the handsomest and most spacious on Strawberry Hill. The wedding supper will be served by Maresi, of New York, and Giesseman, of New York, will furnish the music at the house. After an extended wedding trip through Canada, Mr. and Mrs. Reid will make their home in Mt. Sterling, Ky."

Mr. W. H. Reid is a son of Hon. J. Davis Reid, of this county, and is a magnificent specimen of Kentucky manhood, physically, mentally and morally. He is probably (and deservedly) the most popular young man in the county.

All business properly pushed is successful, but all the methods and plans as a mere formula are useless unless backed by push. It is not out of the way to say that one of the necessary features of a business method is correct advertising. That is, the people should know what is in stock and the prices at which they are held. Any firm, it matters not where it is located, if it has competition is inactive and unsuccessful without advertising. Show us men in business who neglect this feature and we will show you men who are grumbling about hard times whether they be stringent or flush, but as before stated, all men if they would succeed must apply all the ingenuity, judgement and energy they possess.

The trade can not be studied too close, because the wants must be met. Those people who think the only things necessary are a good stock, accommodating salesmen and low prices are sufficient will fail. It is work, work, work, advertising, personal contact, pluck, push; best efforts must be given to business. Along this line we have been studying some of our business men and none of them fit more perfectly real business principles than the men composing the firm of Oldham Bros. & Co., most generally known as "Busy Bee store." Every person connected with this store is always busy, very busy, and from early morning until late in the evening their quarters are thronged with purchasers eager to be waited on. They are too busy to entertain loafers, their custom being business, business, business before pleasure.

This week Mess. Oldham Bros. & Co. talk to the people through the columns of the "ADVOCATE," about their different lines and those who have not already been to see them, have a cordial invitation to get acquainted with them and their business methods.
